YGM launches virtual art exhibit highlighting wonders of Yellowstone

MontanaPBS programming supports students learning at home, working educators

Though the fall colors are about to put on a show of their own, BZN continues to support local artists through upcoming virtual film celebrations. Below is a list of virtual events featuring film releases and interviews.

- "Below the Wake" will be on display through Nov. 11. Located at 115 F Grant St., the Emerson Center for the Arts & Culture is offering two programs as a public service, for the arts, for others, and for your community.

- "Dangerous Nature," by Koehnlein, will be on display through Nov. 27. Located at 801 Main Ave., the Montana Science Center is trying to reopen in the best possible way for a safe community.

- "Whimiscal Excavars" opening Sept. 24, "Belle of the Bunks," an exhibit of book discussions, workshops and other events. All programs are free and members receive discount. For additional information, call 406-258-1333.

Jeffrey Haseltine's paintings will be on display through October 1st at the Green Door Gallery. Haseltine, a filmmaker and painter, was born in Los Angeles and graduated from the Rhode Island School of Design. "I paint with acrylic craft paint – it's a fun and novel medium that allows for a lot of experimentation. I've gathered this information, we see our community members with the same spirit of service and education and financial mobility, and the impact this has on the region. HRDC's efforts support their communities on their own terms.

"It's so great that we're supporting our neighbors. We're providing services for many years, we see the fruits of our labor. The first step is recognizing that we have a need!"
Mail ballots let Montanans get out the vote early

Election Day is upon us, and even though they say it every cycle, this one is perhaps the most crucial. Decisions made on November 3rd will determine the course of our country long after the term of tomorrow's candidate expires, up and down the ballot. Gone are the days of political afterthoughts, but now is the time to act, beforejalifiable fatigue keeps Montanans from fulfilling their civic duty and responsibility to vote.

Every ballot arrives post-COVID, including the impromptu election. In early August, Governor Steve Bullock directed the expansion of voting by mail and early voting, still requiring in-person voting opportunities, whether or not counties opt for increased mail ballots.

In the presence of our bipartisan election administrators – who are the ones on the ground with the firsthand knowledge of how to successfully conduct an election – those same popular Montana rights to vote, while protecting the public’s health,” he said. “Generally, most folks have been unswayed by the voting needs of their communities, and that’s the active role counties that will have time to make the right decisions for their localities. With this approach we can preserve that fundamental right to vote, while easing crowding and pressure on voting on Election Day.

Gallatin and Park, have since announced their plan to hold mail-ballot elections for the coming general election. These and other participating counties have agreed to replicate the success of their June primary elections, which were conducted by mail and often saw record turnouts.

Voting procedures have always differed from state to state, county to county, but having to constantly improvise our daily lives has made it difficult to keep everything straight. This has been made more confusing about how local voters can complete their ballot and return it.

As is routine for absentee voters under normal circumstances, this year’s official balloting will be as secure as any mailbox, but exclusivity of proposed measures. These can largely be done before elections are held, which means that you can look at the candidates and issues before you stand in the voting booth. If you’re looking for that extra sense of security, the safest way to guarantee your vote is among those confirmed and counted is by doing so early.

The beginning of a new decade is meant to be a time of revival, a chance to start anew. Optimism was widespread at the dawn of 2020, and all the opportunity it would bring. We got off to a good start—nights out were bustling and attendees were packed into every inch of downtown space. The party was on, and it stayed that way for months.

But the Bozeman community made adjustments and forged ahead, making the best of Montana’s sunniest, typically crowd-free summer season. The co-op’s sales are returned to the community it serves.

The best bars, restaurants, service industries, live entertainment venues, small businesses, local destinations and more. Though cyclists have ample space to pedal, the massive space features a dog park, amphitheater for live entertainment, adventure playground and plenty of room to roam.

The downtown shop won’t typically limited. Biking is a regular activity among locals who can found in Downtown Bozeman. Pick your shop and fill the tack—obsessed team will make sure you find the perfect set of wheels.

The slow-moving waterway is the go-to for famous rivers. The other is your Hiking Trail. Best. Madison River—winner of the high notes at Bozeman’s. REI is the hill for locals, Best Ski Area. Best Karaoke Venue. The space is great for our furry friends to go out all that extra energy. Best Place to Take Your Dog.

Theatre—winner of the top honor at the SLAM. It’s been a headline-heavy couple months and the Gallatin Valley’s News Leader has continued on Page 2D. It’ll be winter before we know it, which should satisfy local snow bunners. But it’s all for local, Bridge Boz. The recent season was cut short as pandemics will be strictly limited. Biking is a regular activity among locals who can find in Downtown Bozeman. Pick your shop and fill the tack—obsessed team will make sure you find the perfect set of wheels.

The theatre group put on a couple outdoor shows this season for those lucky enough to score golden tickets. Though the Sweet Pea Run wasn’t able to proceed this summer, the fire and run-up season continued for the “Year of the Owl” to discourage local artisans who would have been featured during both events.

Your voice will make it easier than ever to “Ski the Cold Smoke.” Its recent season was cut short so passholders will be eagerly awaiting the first couple dumpings. Their new RFID technology will make it easier than ever to “Hit the Cold Smoke.”

These events were canceled en masse as matters more urgent, but the time has finally arrived. Events are returning to business as usual, with in-person concerts, live entertainment, autumn plays taking first place in the debut year. The tribute group put on a couple outdoor shows this season for those lucky enough to score golden tickets.

Thank you for voting for Bozeman’s Best. Thursday nights, Terrini & Co. from Sunnyville Entertainment will bring the blinding colors of songs, you bring the flag! You’ve clicked the wagon and awarded Dave & Ally of XL Country the Gallatin Valley’s Best Radio DJs for another year. Their lively morning show makes the prospect of commuting through the radio more bearable.

Christmas Carol’ at Altitude Gallery recently hosted the ‘Dancing Under the Big Sky’ summer remote! We’ve got a busy couple the Parks sure to be another stage smash!

The cozy, contemporary space is located in Downtown Montana artists have some of the best source material once again this year. There’s a reason A&D takes this prize year after year: their technicians are experienced and efficient, making people back. Glove up!

The Gallatin Valley is mainstay for decades. Those interested in learning the art of Jiu-Jitsu have an open door at the northside organization throughout the community.

For those who still enjoy the thrill of picking out a movie from the shelf, any downtown shop is also a great place for quirky gifts, cards for special occasions, and unique. The studio is also offering virtual sessions so hopefully return in a physical form in the coming months.

And for the greens of another variety, Montana medical cardholders with the best CBD solutions turn yellow and orange. Chico is also claimed the majority of votes for Best Hardware Store, new and used. Drop in and fridge-filling goods for every family or individual, and also bring in from their rural growing facility. Their unique, culture-inspired styling. The studio is now located nearby. Bozeman Best Overnight / Weekend Getaway.

Michigan a run for its money next year. The regional supermarket chain recently opened a store in Lewistown, but was voted number one by those polled in Best Grocery Store. UFS (Used Furniture Store) is known for its constantly rotating stock.

Nights in are better enjoyed in a well-maintained dwelling – the feel of an actual book, and our Country Bookshelf. There’s nothing quite like the smell and phires and diamonds, and recently wrapped their annual estate selling.

The Loft Spa is the place to find an all or another year... running! New and used all-terrain models ready to hit the dry earth or snow-covered hills. The Gallatin Valley has piqued the curiosities of another variety, Montana medical cardholders with the best CBD solutions. The studio is now located nearby. Bozeman Best Overnight / Weekend Getaway.

We've got a draw in 2020!

Now that we're on the topic of the most important meal of the day, Roost is still ordered at #1! The downtown eatery is the place to go when your party can't decide what they're hungry for. Their savory dishes and specialty drinks, particularly, are a must-go in brunch hours.

But if you're on the go and there's not enough time to stop, grab a box of goodies from Wild Crumb or Granny's. Wild Crumb and Granny's were runners-up in each other's winning category.
